FOREWORD

A great deal of talent is lost in the world for want of a little courage. Every day sends to their graves obscure men whom timidity prevented from making a first effort: who, if they could have been induced to begin, would in all probability have gone great lengths in the career of fame. The fact is, that to do anything in the world worth doing, we must not stand back shivering and thinking of the cold and danger, but jump and scramble through as well as we can.

Courage and perseverance have a magical talisman, before which our difficulties have disappeared and our obstacles have vanished into the air, thus we are able to present the triumphant

The Memory of

MR. JAMES BUCHANAN DUKE

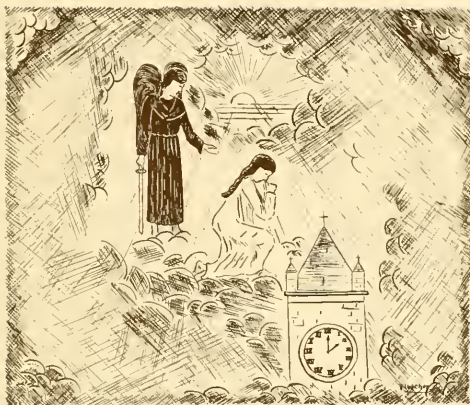

Whose generous spirit towards humanity was manifested by giving to mankind permanent endowments from a trust fund created by him for educational institutions, hospitals and charitable institutions. This institution of learning received a part of these benefactions which has enabled it to afford unusual opportunities for larger and better services.

In recognition of this fact, to the memory of Mr. James Buchanan Duke, we dedicate

*WE cannot say, and we will not say
That she is dead—she is just away!*

*With a cherry smile, and a wave of the hand,
She has wandered into an unknown land,*

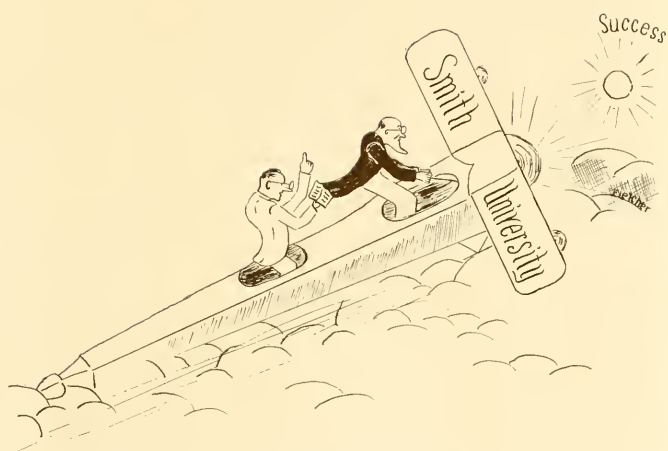

*And left us dreaming how very fair
Its needs must be since she lingers there.*

*The touches of her hands have strayed
As reverently as her lips have prayed.*

*Think of her still as the same, we say:
She is not dead—she is just away!*

Purpose and Objectives of the Institution

Johnson C. Smith University is a Christian institution. Its purpose is to offer the students who come to it the best intellectual opportunities than can be afforded. It believes that the only genuine education is that which places emphasis upon spiritual values. To this end the institution seeks to develop in the student those qualities that make for the highest type of citizenship. The institution seeks to develop in the student the proper attitude toward life and to enable him to realize his place in society. Such courses are offered as will enable him to understand and appreciate the world in which he lives and the opportunities that it affords for service.

The institution seeks to accomplish the following objectives: To prepare men for effective leadership in the important pursuits of life, to develop the moral character and religious life of the student; to stimulate an intellectual desire for truth; to create a desire for the highest degree of efficiency in the profession chosen as his life's work; to prepare young men for Christian service such as the ministry, Y. M. C. A. social workers and missionaries; to prepare young men for service as teachers; to give the students a background for later professional work, such as medicine, law and other specialized vocations.

The programs of study are planned so as to lend aid to the achievement of these objectives.

Dean Theophilus E. McKinney is a graduate of Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., and of Boston University, where he secured the Master's degree.

For five years prior to the school year 1929-'30, Dean McKinney was dean at the Agricultural and Mechanical College at Greensboro, N. C. While serving as dean at A. and T. College, Dean McKinney called the first meeting of representatives from the many negro institutions of higher learning and formed what has since been known as The National Association of Collegiate Deans and Registrars in Negro Colleges.

SMITH-PITT DEBATERS

Debating

The year 1929-'30 marks the passing of another period in the debating history of Johnson C. Smith University. Emphasis this year was centered upon the selection of current subjects and outstanding teams which would be interesting and instructive from the standpoint of the audience. The questions on the schedule were:

Resolved, That the American government is more democratic than the English government.

Resolved, That modern advertising is more detrimental than beneficial to society.

Resolved, That the American jury system in criminal cases should be abolished.

Resolved, That negroes should join the labor unions of this country.

Several new features were introduced this year among which was the formation of the Smith Debating Society. For the debate on advertising with the University of Pittsburgh, the Oregon System was given a trial. The open forum discussion after that debate was quite successful. Against the South Carolina State College team the audience vote system, plus the judges' votes, was used. For the coming Pentagonal League contests with Fisk and Morehouse, the expert single judge decision is to be given a trial.

LINCOLN—SMITH

The debating season opened with an intersectional contest with Lincoln University from Pennsylvania on the evening of December 3, 1929. Mr. C. E. Mitchell, Mr. F. A. Brown, and Mr. J. T. Sydnor of Lincoln upheld the affirmative of the proposition, "Resolved, That the American government is more democratic than the English government." Mr. S. H. Travis, Mr. M. H. Boulware, and Mr. E. W. Jones successfully upheld the negative.

Johnson C. Smith University won by a 2-1 judges' decision.

PITTSBURGH—SMITH

On February 13, 1930, the University of Pittsburgh, on an all-southern tour, meeting such teams as the University of Tennessee, Emory University, Oglethorpe University, and Birmingham Southern College, met Smith on the question, "Resolved, That modern advertising is more detrimental than beneficial to society." Mr. Elliot Finkel and Mr. C. J. Phillips defended the affirmative for Pittsburgh against Mr. A. J. Clement, Jr., and Mr. E. C. Grigg, Jr., who upheld the negative for Smith.

This was a non-decision debate followed by an open forum discussion.

SOUTH CAROLINA STATE—SMITH (Dual Debate)

At Columbia, S. C., March 21, 1930, the question of advertising was again discussed with Mr. R. A. McGirt and Mr. S. R. Williams of the Palmetto State College upholding the affirmative, against Mr. E. C. Grigg, Jr., and Mr. A. J. Clement, Jr., defending the negative.

Smith won a 3-0 judges' decision and an audience decision by a large majority.

At Danville, Va., on the same evening, the Danville forum presented South Carolina State on the negative of the advertising question and Smith on the affirmative. For State the speakers were Mr. C. Thompson and Mr. T. Stewart. Mr. M. H. Boulware and Mr. S. H. Travis spoke for Smith.

Here the debate was deadlocked by State receiving a 2-1 judges' decision while Smith won the audience to their side by an overwhelming majority vote.

PENTAGONAL LEAGUE

Johnson C. Smith University is in a forensic league composed of Fisk University, Knoxville College, Morehouse College and Taladega College. The question for 1930 is, "Resolved, That the American jury system in criminal cases should be abolished." Smith's opponents this year are Fisk at home on the affirmative of the proposition and Morehouse in Atlanta on the negative. In all league debates the expert judge decision is to be used.

ATLANTA—SMITH

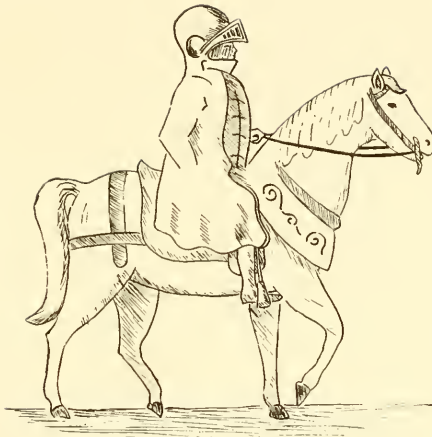

Atlanta University is to be met on the question, "Resolved, That negroes should join the labor unions of this country."

ALPHA OMICRON CHAPTER

To, if possible, regain that utopian state in earthly existence that is supposed to have once been man's, has been the continued pursuit of mortals. Though the goal sought has been, at times, unbearably elusive, Hope has beckoned us onward. Hence it is that now in groups we surge forward—ignoring past disillusionments—ever craving the acquisition of the Grail that we mutually seek.

Since our début each of us has striven to maintain high standards of scholarship and morals. Although the members of our group have maintained an enviable record since our incipency, we know there remains other achievements for us. Thus the "Kappa Spirit" in this chapter reigns supreme, and everything moves harmoniously in the good "ole" Kappa way.

OMEGA PSI PHI

Omega Psi Phi

Ninety-eight per cent of a college is friendship. Friendship formed in college is almost perpetual. Therefore fraternities play an important part in the life of a college man.

Rho Chapter of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity is keeping abreast of the times, and is helping to make fraternity life an entity here on Smith's campus. When one sees a group of men, bound together for one common good, one sees success, if the cause is devoted in the right manner. This is a symptom of a successful race in the future. It has been proved that men can only approach that modern Utopia by coöperating for the good of all concerned.

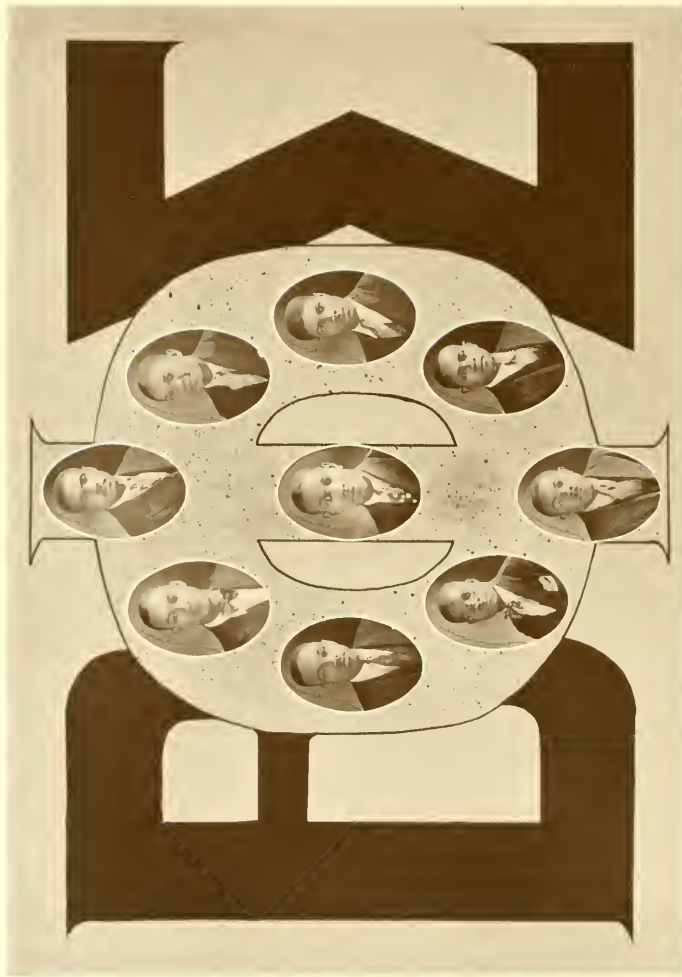

May the cardinal principles of God be held high, and the true spirit of fraternalism be exemplified by all men, irrespective of color, race or creed.

Organizations

The fraternities, clubs and other organizations at Smith have been of real value to the institution.

They have taken an active interest in all movements looking to the progress of the institution and the improvement of the spirit of the Student Body.

Every effort has been made to prevent these organizations from creating any "class" distinctions and the efforts have been successful.

The members of these organizations are appreciative of the helpful coöperation and encouragement received from the faculty.

CLUBS

The University Glee Club

In the fall of 1926, the University Glee Club had its incipency under the direction of Professor W. S. Peyton.

From its beginning, the Glee Club has held an outstanding place among other local organizations and now has become an indispensable part of the University.

This club has filled several engagements this year, and there are many more pending, important among these was a radio broadcast over station WBT.

Football, 1929

This season's edition of gridiron warriors was perhaps as successful as any team that has ever represented the University. Turnstiles clicked with regularity and rapidity. They were heralded from Washington to Atlanta as "the Mythical Golden Bulls."

The Golden Bulls opened the season at home by facing the North Carolina College Eagles. This game proved to be a test game for rookies. It was in this game that Coach J. F. Thomas, a Minnesota product, uncovered two players who are destined to make names for themselves in football history: Hamlin, an end, and Gilliard, a speedy, driving fullback. The score of this game was, Smith 13, N. C. College 0.

The next game was with the Howard Bisons at Washington. It was in this game that the Smith forward Wall earned for itself the title "A Line of Boggles"—Bogle was the Golden Bulls' All-American guard, 1928. With the ball on Smith's two-yard line, the Bisons had four downs to make two yards and a score, but Captain Henry's cry to his men, "on bleeding hands and knees they must not score," was heeded by them. Howard did not score.

Scurlock, master photographer of Washington said, "the Bulls are the smartest looking team that ever trod the Bisons' gridiron."

Laurinburg Normal was the next victim of the Golden Bulls. This was another rookie day. The Benedict College eleven came to Charlotte on October 25 and received its drubbing. The Benedict eleven made a creditable showing, however, holding the Bulls to 13 points after the Howard Bisons had failed to do as well.

The first day of November, the Shaw Bears were completely routed from their den by the Golden Bulls. In this game Walker, a fleet halfback, clipped off yardage at will.

The South Carolina State eleven came to the Bull Pen November 9 to upset the Golden Bulls, but went away satisfied with having the honor of being the only team to score on the Bulls. "Red" Williams, Massey and Henry were the luminaries of this game.

The following Saturday, Clarks' Panthers caught the Golden Bulls asleep in their lair and trounced them good. The Bulls declared it was too much Ric Roberts, Dupree, Dalton, Dukes, etc.

The 23rd of November found the Tigers of Morehouse College in the Bull Pen. It was Home-Coming Day but not much home-coming on account of the weather. The first half was played on a field of ice, the second in a field of mud. It was a thrilling game. Edmonds of Morehouse, and Henry, Williams, Foulkes and Bess of Smith, were the stars. The Bulls triumphed.

The Bulls displayed their weakest game Thanksgiving Day at Salisbury against the weak Livingstone eleven. The Bulls had not been held scoreless in any previous game. It was left to the Livingstonians to do it, and it they did, even though they played the entire game with their backs to the wall. This game marked the passing of E. House, four years a letterman on the Smith team.

Basketball, 1930

The Golden Bulls, playing their second season of basketball, found the sailing rough. Nothing but stiff opposition was taken on. In the light of this fact, the season was considered fairly successful.

The Golden Bulls were nosed out in their own gym by the A. and T. five 25-24 on January 6. This was the curtain raiser for the Bulls.

The next team to come to the Smith gym was the Danville Flashes. This game proved to be a set-up for the Smithites. The score—Smith 85, Danville 5.

The next game found the strong Virginia Seminary team taking a lacing from the Bulls—score, 19-15.

The Bulls then took a jaunt to Bluefield, W. Va., and took a 42-27 swamping from the Bluefield five.

The following week the Bulls set out on a three weeks' road trip through Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Tennessee.

The first game found the Bulls getting off to a swift start, trouncing the North Carolina College Eagles 54-22.

The Bulls then encountered the Praying Parsons of Virginia Seminary at Lynchburg. The Parsons were victorious 29-25.

Virginia State was the next to entertain the Bulls. Here two games were played, the Bulls copping the first one 16-15, and dropping the second one 23-22.

The Union five was the next foe of the Bulls. The game was nip and tuck throughout, the Union five emerging victorious by a 28-27 count.

The Hampton quint came from behind in the closing minutes of the game to take the big end of a 29-19 score.

The Bordentown (N. J.) five also played host to the Bulls, giving them a 34-23 trouncing. At Morgan College the Bulls found the sailing rougher, and were completely routed by a lop-sided score of 54-31.

The Bulls then journeyed to Philadelphia and defeated the Omega five 24-16.

On coming back to North Carolina, the Bulls defeated A. and T. College 27-21; St. Augustine 27-24 and Livingstone 36-20.

Journeying on to Fisk, the Bulls bowed to a fast quint of Bull Dogs, 44-21.

The season was closed at home by lacing Livingstone 45-11.

Captain Avant and "Dump" Horne were the mainstays for the Bulls throughout the season. The record may be summed up as follows: victories 11, defeats 10.

Baseball, 1930

As THE BULL goes to press, the baseball team is gradually rounding into shape for a strenuous season. The wealth of material to be found in the Bull pen each afternoon gives boosters of the team great hope that Livingstone will be tipped in the annual Easter Monday classic, and that woe will betide all oncomers this season.

The infielders are: W. Williams, Tucker, Lindsay, McDowell, "Dynamite" Dunn and Bailey. The outfielders are: Biggs, C. Walker, O. Horne, Jones and Moton. The catchers are: Martin, Massey, McMillan and "Red" Williams. Ellis, Carraway, Ramseur, Oliver, Plair and Snypes are the pitchers.

Two games have been played already, both with Benedict College. The Bulls slaughtered the South Carolina Baptists, the first game in the Bull pen 19-5. In the second game at Columbia, a better game was played and resulted in a 4-4 score.

It is the opinion of critics that the mighty bats of Tucker, Biggs, J. O. Horne, Lindsay, Massey, Walker and "Mose" Ellis will offset the loss of "Bun" Hayes, for four years ace of the Bull pitching staff. A successful season is anticipated.

Manager G. W. Brown has completely outfitted the team in new uniforms, including sweat jackets, a new thing in collegiate baseball. The Easter classic has also been moved to the Bull pen by Professor Brown.

Track, 1930

The Athletic Board of Control elevated track to a major sport at the University.

As THE BULL goes to press, Coach D. T. Ray and his men are extending themselves in preparation for the annual C. I. A. A. Meet, which will be held at Hampton this spring. However, Professor Ray is not directing all of his efforts towards the Hampton Meet. His primary object is to lay the foundation for a team of championship caliber.

Tennis, 1930

Tennis, along with track, was elevated to a major sport. Courts are being graded and laid off. In a few days candidates will begin work.

There is a wealth of material on the Hill. Fitch, LaSaine and Dudley will probably see service on the teams as all three are experienced men. Many are eager to show their wares on the court. From indications, a fighting if not a winning team will represent "the gold and blue."

FOOTBALL

The September breezes around the Hill were still full of that warmth which hovers over from August, when Coach Thomas sounded the first whistle for football practice. Out of the rank and file of 317 men, some 85 stout hearts answered the challenge. In the ranks there were men who were varsity left-overs, while here and there could be seen youngsters who were new to the game in the "Bull pen." Among this group were men who later covered themselves with glory and others who dropped out, thereby becoming indistinct figures in the recesses of the minds of football fandom.

From just such a setting evolved Smith's mighty Golden Tide to brush away most opponents in its quest for gridiron glory and laurels. The Bulls met with but one reversal in nine starts. Clark's Black Battalion of Death was the only squad who mustered the strength to defeat our yellow clad warriors.

It has been customary in this column to mention some individual stars of the season. With this in view the writer wishes first to commend the entire varsity squad. The fact must be admitted that it would take the critical eye of a Grantland Rice to pick justly from a bunch of such high caliber, some few men, and point to them as the most outstanding. However, lest we forget the title, let's start the fireworks.

In 1928, Johnnie Bogle was Smith's All-American guard. At the end of the past season he was given a berth on "Chess" Washington's All-American second team. This sport scribe also gave honorable mention to our crafty field general, "Beef" Martin. In an All-State team picked by the Carolina Times, "Red Cagle" Williams was named on the first team along with Captain Jethro Henry; Walker, Jones and Fowlkes receiving honorable mention. "Red" Williams is Smith's triple threat man. He can run, kick, and pass that ball with uncanny ability. He is to Smith what Albie Booth is to Yale. Along with the outstanding men who were recognized long before this writing, the following men deserve mention for their achievements: House, a guard, although not a scintillating player, played a better game than most folks realized. Massey and Ellis, ends, proved by their speed and ability that they were masters of their positions.

OUTSTANDING PLAYERS IN BASKETBALL

Basketball, when compared to other phases of athletics, is still in its infancy. The last season was Smith's second attempt to put out a team. Surprisingly, the team registered better than was expected by winning 11 games out of 21 attempts. The top notchers were Captain Avant, who has led the quint in scoring since the game has become a representative sport of the institution; LaSaine for his brilliant floor work, and "Dump" Horne for his close guarding.

OUTSTANDING PLAYERS IN BASEBALL

Nowhere in collegiate circles does king baseball enjoy the popularity which is accorded the national past-time at Smith. And there's a good reason. For years Smith has put out nines that were unequalled anywhere. From Smith's backyard have gone players to regular berths in professional circles. We are mindful of "Bun" Hayes who has not been away from the pen long enough for his performances to be forgotten. This twirler is now classed with some of the best deliverers. Smith's infield consists of Massey, Captain "Lou" Williams, Tucker, Lindsay and McDowell. Massey is a good catcher, and hits the ball at a terrific clip. Williams is as neat a first baseman as one wishes to see. He gets them from all angles; handling them in the words of the coach "like a million dollars." Tucker hits 'em a la Ruth. This boy connects with enough four base clouts to be a major leaguer. "Red" Lindsay is all that one might expect after having sent up a prayer for a shortstop. "Red" picks them up and throws them without apparent effort. In all-round ability, Horne has a slight edge in the outfield.

IN THE TRACK WHIRL

Smith's most recent initiation is track. There are a number of aspirants who from all indications are going to vie for honors. Ed Jones, "Red" Williams and Babb are likely to place in the coming events.

THOUGHTFULNESS

The distinguishing quality of the successful funeral director is thoughtfulness. This thoughtfulness is shown not only in his actions at the time of the funeral service, but in the facilities he has prepared in advance. Every desire of his clients must have been foreseen long before, and provided for.

But such preparation is only possible against a background of long experience. Years of service must have taught the funeral director these little ways of adding to the comfort of those he is called upon to help.

Our service has just such a background of experience. During the many years that we have ministered to the needs of this community we have acquired a fund of sympathy and understanding which enables us to fulfill the unspoken wishes of our clients.
